

O R,

To bring } { cur. money—add $\frac{1}{3}$ or $33\frac{1}{3}$ p. c.
ster. money } { com. cur.—add $\frac{2}{3}$ or $66\frac{2}{3}$ p. c.
into }

To bring } { com. cur.—add $\frac{1}{4}$ or 25 p. c.
cur. money } { ster. mo.—subtract $\frac{1}{4}$ or 25 p. c.
into }

To bring } { ster. mo.—subtract $\frac{2}{5}$ or 40 p. c.
com. cur. } { cur. mo.—subtract $\frac{1}{5}$ or 20 p. c.
into }

The parr of exchange, being only adopted in the above table, I must for the other rates, refer to the tables at large, in the appendix.

I shall now proceed, briefly to enumerate the several other kinds of administrations, explain the cases whereto they are applicable, and shew the method used in granting letters thereon.

The construction, probate, and other particulars of the inventory, as also the manner of taking bond, passing of accounts, and every other matter relating thereto, being in every respect the same, as in common administrations, it will not here be re-considered.